

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A monitor having a monitor body, includes a base member supporting the monitor body, a stationary stand member standing on the base member, a movable stand member coupled to the stationary stand member so as to move up and down, and having a locker accommodating part, a locker provided in one of the stationary stand member and the base member, so as to be locked into or releasing from the locker accommodating part of the movable stand member. With this configuration, the present invention provides a monitor, wherein the volume is diminished when it is packed.